

ENT CENTER FOR THE ARTS

The AI and Leigh Buettner Vanguard Performances are the Philharmonic's cutting-edge concerts, dedicated to in-depth discovery of composers' worlds and the stories behind the music. Starting in 2018, the Vanguard Performances have a new home – the Ent Center for the Arts.

Now under construction at the University of Colorado Colorado Springs, the Ent Center for the Arts is 93,000 square feet dedicated to music, dance, theater, and visual arts. Inside its silver façade, audiences will find a magnificent concert hall that's literally built for music. Seating 750 concertgoers, the Ent Center for the Arts will offer intimacy, connection, and sonic delights at every Philharmonic concert.

The Colorado Springs Philharmonic is honored to offer the very first concerts performed at the Ent Center for the Arts. As a subscriber, you have the first opportunity to claim your seats at the Ent Center, before they go on sale to the general public.

Acoustics are essential, and the Ent Center is in the best of hands.

Jaffe Holden Acousticians have honed their craft at some of the finest concert halls in the world, including at Lincoln Center, the Kennedy Center, and Radio City Music Hall.
